

Darsh Mariyappa

Partner

Darsh has 30+ years experience with global financial institutions in Foreign Exchange (FX) and interest rates markets. Following completion of his MBA at Columbia University, Darsh started his career trading currencies at Chase Manhattan Bank on Wall Street. Eventually he moved to building and managing small global markets teams across various international markets where he lived including Southeast Asia, London, Brazil and North America.

In 2008 he became the Head of Global Markets US for Bank of Ireland, including the launch of www.boiglobalpayments.com and leveraged this experience to grow an FX and international payments advisory platform called Global Payments Partners merging the gap between Banking and FinTech.

Darsh grew up between Bangalore, India and Amarillo, Texas. He attended Southern Methodist University before receiving his MBA from Columbia University in New York. He now lives in Weston, CT with his wife and 3 kids.

